The Declaration of Independence is generally regarded as one of the most famous documents in the history of the world. On June 10, 1776, the Continental Congress appointed a committee, consisting of Thomas Jefferson, Benjamin Franklin, John Adams, Roger Sherman and Robert R. Livingston to draft a Declaration of Independence.

Jefferson wrote out a rough draft of the Declaration, which was carefully revised by the committee and presented to Congress for adoption. After some further slight revisions by that body, it was adopted on July 4, 1776, at Philadephia.

The parchment with the original signatures was deposited with the Department of State when the government was organized in 1789.

The original Declaration of Independence is now on public exhibition in the Library of Congress at Washington, D. C. It was transferred from the Department of State by direction of the late President Warren G. Harding.

THE DECLARATION OF INDEPENDENCE

MADE BY THE ORIGINAL THIRTEEN STATES IN CONGRESS AT PHILADELPHIA

UNANIMOUSLY ADOPTED JULY 4, 1776

When, in the course of human events, it becomes necessary for one people to dissolve the political bands which have connected them with another, and to assume, among the powers of the earth, the separate and equal station to which the laws of nature and of nature's God entitle them, a decent respect to the opinions of mankind requires that they should declare the causes which impel them to the separation.

We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed, by their Creator, with certain unalienable rights, that among these are life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness. That to secure these rights, governments are instituted among men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed,`that whenever any form of government becomes destructive of these ends, it is the right of the people to alter or to abolish it, and institute new government, laying its foundation on such principles, and organizing its powers in such form as to them shall seem most likely to effect their safety and happiness. Prudence, indeed, will dictate that governments long established, should not be changed for light and transcient causes; and accordingly all experience hath shown that mankind are more disposed to suffer, while evils are sufferable, than to right themselves by abolishing the forms to which they are accustomed. But when a long train of abuses and usurpations, pursuing invariably the same object, evinces a design to reduce them under absolute despotism, it is their right, it is their duty, to throw off such government, and to provide new guards for their future security. Such has been the patient sufferance of these Colonies, and such is now the necessity which constrains them to alter their former systems of government. The history of the present King of Great Britain is a history of repeated injuries and usurpations, all having in direct object the establishment of an absolute tryanny over these States. To prove this, let facts be submitted to a candid world.

He has refused his assent to laws, the most wholesome and necessary for the public good.

He has forbidden his governors to pass laws of immediate and pressing importance, unless suspended in their operation till his assent should be obtained; and when so suspended, he has utterly neglected to attend to them.

He has refused to pass other laws for the accommodation of large districts of people, unless those people should relinquish the right of representation in the legislature, a right inestimable to them, and formidable to tyrants only.

He has called together legislative bodies at places unusual, uncomfortable, and distant from the depository of their public records, for the sole purpose of fatiguing them into compliance with his measures.

He has dissolved representative houses repeatedly, for opposing with manly firmness his invasions on the rights of the people.

He has refused for a long time, after such dissolutions, to cause others to be elected, whereby the legislative powers, incapable of annihilation, have returned to the people at large for their exercise; the State remaining, in the meantime, exposed to all the dangers of invasion from without, and convulsions within.

He has endeavored to prevent the population of these States; for that purpose obstructing the laws for naturalization of foreigners; refusing to pass others to encourage their migrations hither; and raising the conditions of new appropriations of lands.

He has obstructed the administration of justice by refusing his assent to laws for establishing judiciary powers.

He has made judges dependent on his will alone, for the tenure of their offices, and the amount and payment of their salaries.

He has erected a multitude of new offices, and sent hither swarms of officers to harass our people, and eat out their substance.

He has kept among us, in times of peace, standing armies, without the consent of our legislatures.

He has affected to render the military independent of and superior to the civil power.

He has combined with others to subject us to a jurisdiction foreign to our constitution and unacknowledged by our laws; giving his assent to their acts of pretended legislation:

For quartering large bodies of armed troops among us:

For protecting them, by a mock trial, from punishment for any murders which they should commit on the inhabitants of these States:

For cutting off our trade with all parts of the world:

For imposing taxes on us without our consent:

For depriving us, in many cases, of the benefits of trial by jury:

For transporting us beyond seas to be tried for pretended offenses:

For abolishing the free system of English laws in a neighboring province, establishing therein an arbitrary government, and enlarging its boundaries, so as to render it at once an example and fit instrument for introducing the same absolute rule into these colonies:

For taking away our charters, abolishing our most valuable laws, and altering fundamentally the forms of our governments:

For suspending our own legislatures, and declaring themselves invested with power to legislate for us in all cases whatsoever.

He has abdicated government here, by declaring us out of his protection, and waging war against us.

He has plundered our seas, ravaged our coasts, burnt our towns, and destroyed the lives of our people.

He is, at this time, transporting large armies of foreign mercenaries to complete the works of death, desolation, and tyranny, already begun, with circumstances of cruelty and perfidy, scarcely paralleled in the most barbarous ages, and totally unworthy the head of a civilized nation.

He has constrained our fellow citizens, taken captive on the high seas, to bear arms against their country, to become the executioners of their friends and brethren, or to fall themselves by their hands.

He has excited domestic insurrections amongst us, and has endeavored to bring on the inhabitants of our frontiers, the merciless Indian savages, whose known rule of warfare is an undistinguished destruction of all ages, sexes, and conditions.

In every stage of these oppressions we have petitioned for redress in the most humble terms: our repeated petitions have been answered only by repeated injury. A prince whose character is thus marked by every act which may define a tyrant, is unfit to be the ruler of a free people.

Nor have we been wanting in attentions to our British brethren. We have warned them, from time to time, of attempts by their legislature to extend an unwarrantable jurisdiction over us. We have reminded them of the circumstances of our emigration and settlement here. We have appealed to their native justice and magnanimity, and we have conjured them by the ties of our common kindred to disavow these usurpations, which would inevitably interrupt our connections and correspondence. They too have been deaf to the voice of justice and of consanguinity. We must, therefore, acquiesce in the necessity which denounces our separation, and hold them, as we hold the rest of mankind, enemies in war, in peace friends.

We, therefore, the Representatives of the United States of America, in General Congress assembled, appealing to the Supreme Judge of the world for the rectitude of our intentions, do in the name, and by authority of the good people of these Colonies, solemnly publish and declare, That these United Colonies, are, and of right ought to be, free and independent States; that they are absolved from all allegiance to the British crown, and that all political connexion between them and the State of Great Britain, is, and ought to be, totally dissolved; and that as free and independent States, they have full power to levy war, conclude peace, contract alliances, establish commerce, and to do all other acts and things which independent States may of right do. And for the support of this declaration, with a firm reliance on the protection of Divine Providence we mutually pledge to each other our lives, our fortunes, and our sacred honour.

The United States Constitution is the oldest federal constitution in existence. It was so well framed that it has served as the basis for this government for a century and a half. Only once has it been seriously endangered, this being during the Civil War. Many of its principles have been adopted by other countries.

The Constitution was the outgrowth of a convention of delegates from the different states that met in Philadelphia in May, 1787, Rhode Island not being represented. George Washington presided over the convention, which lasted from May to September.

The Constitution was then submitted to the then existing states for ratification, with a provision that it should become effective when ratified by nine states. New Hampshire was the ninth state to ratify, June 21, 1788, and the Constitution went into effect in 1789.

The states ratified the Constitution in the following order: Delaware, Dec. 7; Pennsylvania, Dec. 12, and New Jersey, Dec. 18, 1787; Georgia, Jan. 2; Connecticut, Jan. 9; Massachusetts, Feb. 6; Maryland, Apr. 28; South Carolina, May 23; New Hampshire, June 21; Virginia, June 26, and New York, July 26, 1788; North Carolina, Nov. 21, 1789, and Rhode Island, May 29, 1790.

THE UNITED STATES

The United States is composed of forty-eight states, one district, and seven non-contiguous territories and possessions.

The republic originated in the rebellion of the British Colonies of North America, Canada excepted, in 1776, and in the Declaration of Independence, the thirteen colonies in revolt styled themselves "The United States of America."

The Canadian boundary line is 3,900 miles in length, the Mexican boundary line being 1,975 miles in length.

According to the 1940 Federal census, the first basic re-measurement of the land and water area of the United States since 1880 showed a total area of 3,022,387 square miles, consisting of 2,977,128 square miles land area, and 45,259 square miles inland water area.

The 1940 Federal census gave the United States, and all territorial possessions, a population of 150,621,231, Continental United States having 131,669,275; territorial possessions, excluding Philippine Islands, 2,595,956; Philippine Islands 16,356,000.

The Capitol of the United States is at Washington, D. C. The corner stone of the original building was laid on September 18, 1793 by President George Washington. The original building was finally completed in 1827, its cost, including the grading of grounds, alterations and repairs up to that year, having been $2,433,844.13.

THE UNITED STATES

With creation, date of admission, area and population

There is no specific form of procedure provided in the United States Constitution for the admission of new states to the Union. Different methods of admission have marked the addition of the thirty-five states to the original thirteen. For admission, however, certain conditions must exist. The community must be organized with a population in numbers and character capable of unholding self government and Congress is the final judge as to these requirements. The decisions of Congress, however, have frequently been influenced by party reasons, and in 1872 it was enacted that no state should be admitted thereafter unless it had the necessary population entitling it to at least one representative, according to a ratio of representation fixed. To gain admission, a petition is presented to Congress, which grants an enabling act if the request is favorably received. When all the terms of the enabling act have been complied with, Congress, by resolution, or the President, by proclamation, declares the new state admitted to the Union.

1950 U. S. Department of Commerce, Bureau of the Census, Population of Continental United States By Regions, Divisions and States: April 1, 1950. (Final)

The total population of the United States on April 1, 1950, was 150,697,361, according to an announcement of final figures from the 1950 Census of Population made by Roy V. Peel, Director, Bureau of the Census, Department of Commerce. During the last 10 years, the United States experienced an all-time record population growth between successive censuses of 19,028,086. The growth of population during this decade was nearly 2,000,000 greater than the former intercensal record growth of 17,064,426 for the period between 1920 and 1930. Between 1940 and 1950, the population of the United States increased at a rate of 14.5 per cent, or twice as rapidly as during the thirties. As in the past, the West was the region with the greatest rate of growth, 40.9 per cent. Each of the other three regions of the United States increased in population, but the rate of growth in these regions was far below that of the West.

For the first time, the West led the regions in the amount of increase in population, 5,678,260, as well as in the rate of increase. The major part of this gain was concentrated in the Pacific Division, that is, the States of California, Oregon, and Washington. In the Mountain Division, population increased at a rate appreciably higher than the national average, but because the division is relatively sparsely settled, the population gain amounted to only 924,995.

The most prominent population increase among the States was that of California, the population of which in 1950 was 10,586,223, representing an increase of 3,678,836, or 53.3 per cent, over the 6,907,387 inhabitants enumerated in the 1940 Census. Population growth in this one State exceeded that of the entire Northeast Region. As a result of the spectacular increase in population in California, the State now ranks second to New York in size whereas in 1940 it ranked fifth. Four other States, New York, Texas, Michigan, and Ohio, had gains of over 1,000,000.

The only State other than California to gain at a rate in excess of 50 per cent was Arizona. The bordering States of Nevada, Utah, and New Mexico all had gains of more than 25 per cent, and together with Arizona form a second center of rapid population growth. A third center of heavy population growth is found in and near the seat of the United States Government. The District of Columbia, Maryland, and Virginia each had increases of more than 20 per cent.

Nineteen States and the District of Columbia gained at a more rapid rate than the Nation as a whole. Of the remaining States, all but four gained population. The four States with population losses were Arkansas, Mississippi, North Dakota, and Oklahoma. The losses and the rates of declines were relatively small. The numerical declines ranged from fewer than 5,000 in Mississippi to slightly more than 100,000 in Oklahoma. These States also had the lowest and highest rates of decline, 0.2 and 4.4 per cent, respectively.

BILL OF RIGHTS.

ARTICLE 1st. All men are born equally free and independent: Therefore, all government, of right, originates from the people, is founded in consent, and instituted for the general good.

Equality of men; origin and object of government.
liii, 212. lxv, 113.

[ART.] *2d. All men have certain natural, essential, and inherent rights—among which are, the enjoying and defending life and liberty; acquiring, possessing, and protecting, property; and, in a word, of seeking and obtaining happiness.

Natural rights.
liv, 117, 590.
lxv, 103. lxvii, 59.
lxxii, 95.
lxxiii, 33, 34.
lxxvii, 581.

[ART.] 3d. When men enter into a state of society, they surrender up some of their natural rights to that society, in order to ensure the protection of others; and, without such an equivalent, the surrender is void.

Society, its organization and purposes.
lxxi, 555.

[ART.] 4th. Among the natural rights, some are, in their very nature unalienable, because no equivalent can be given or received for them. Of this kind are the Rights of Conscience.

Rights of conscience unalienable.
liii, 9. lix, 225.

[ART.] 5th. Every individual has a natural and unalienable right to worship God according to the dictates of his own conscience, and reason; and no subject shall be hurt, molested, or restrained, in his person, liberty, or estate, for worshiping God in the manner and season most agreeable to the dictates of his own conscience; or for his religious profession, sentiments, or persuasion; provided he doth not disturb the public peace or disturb others in their religious worship.

Religious freedom recognized.
liii, 9. lviii, 240.
lix, 225. lxiv, 48.
lxxvi, 420.

[ART.] 6th. As morality and piety, rightly grounded on evangelical principles, will give the best and greatest security to government, and will lay, in the hearts of men, the strongest obligations to due subjection; and as the knowledge of these is most likely to be propagated through a society, by the institution of the public worship of the Deity, and of public instruction in Public worship of the Diety to be encouraged.

liii, 9. lxvi, 230.
lxxv, 424, 562.
lxxvi, 408.

* First inserted in this and following articles of Bill of Rights in General Statutes, 1867.

morality and religion; therefore, to promote these important purposes, the people of this state have a right to empower, and do hereby fully empower, the legislature, to authorize, from time to time, the several towns, parishes, bodies corporate, or religious societies, within this state, to make adequate provision, at their own expense, for the support and maintenance of public Protestant teachers of piety, religion, and morality:

Right of electing religious teachers. Sm., 1. liii, 9, 138. lvi. 508. lviii, 170. lxvi, 230.

Provided notwithstanding, that the several towns, parishes, bodies corporate, or religious societies, shall, at all times, have the exclusive right of electing their own public teachers, and of contracting with them for their support and maintenance. And no person, of any one particular religious sect or denomination, shall ever be compelled to pay towards the support of the teacher or teachers of another persuasion, sect, or denomination.

Free toleration. liii, 9.

And every denomination of Christians, demeaning themselves quietly, and as good subjects of the state, shall be equally under the protection of the law: And no subordination of any one sect or denomination to another, shall ever be established by law.

Existing contracts not affected.

And nothing herein shall be understood to affect any former contracts made for the support of the ministry; but all such contracts shall remain, and be in the same state as if this constitution had not been made.

State sovereignty. lxvi, 369.

[Art.] 7th. The people of this state have the sole and exclusive right of governing themselves as a free, sovereign, and independent state; and do, and forever hereafter shall, exercise and enjoy every power, jurisdiction, and right, pertaining thereto, which is not, or may not hereafter be, by them expressly delegated to the United States of America in congress assembled.

Accountability of magistrates and officers. lxvi, 369. lxvii, 49.

[Art.] 8th. All power residing originally in, and being derived from, the people, all the magistrates and officers of government are their substitutes and agents, and at all times accountable to them.

No hereditary office or place.

[Art.] 9th. No office or place, whatsoever, in government, shall be hereditary — the abilities and integrity requisite in all, not being transmissible to posterity or relations.

Right of revolution. lii, 592. lxv, 113.

[ART.] 10th. Government being instituted for the common benefit, protection, and security, of the whole community, and not for the private interest or emolument of any one man, family, or class of men; therefore, whenever the ends of government are perverted, and public liberty manifestly endangered, and all other means of redress are ineffectual, the people may, and of right ought to reform the old, or establish a new government. The doctrine of nonresistance against arbitrary power, and oppression, is absurd, slavish, and destructive of the good and happiness of mankind.

Elections and elective franchise. lx, 385.

[ART.] 11th. All elections ought to be free, and every inhabitant of the state, having the proper qualifications, has equal right to elect, and be elected, into office; [but no person shall have the right to vote or be eligible to office under the constitution of this state who shall not be able to read the constitution in the English language and to write; provided, however, that this provision shall not apply to any person prevented by a physical disability from complying with its requisitions, nor to any person who now has the right to vote, nor to any person who shall be sixty years of age or upwards on the first day of January, A. D. 1904;]* [and provided further that no person shall have the right to vote, or be eligible to office under the constitution of this state who shall have been convicted of treason, bribery, or any wilful violation of the election laws of this state, or of the United States; but the supreme court may, on notice to the attorney-general restore the privileges of an elector to any person who may have forfeited them by conviction of such offences.]† [The general court shall have power to provide by law for voting by qualified voters who at the time of biennial or state elections or of city elections are absent from the city or town of which they are inhabitants, or who by reason of physical disability are unable to vote in person, in the choice of any officer or officers to be elected or upon any questions submitted at such election.]*

But no part of a man's property shall be taken from him, or applied to public uses, without his own consent, or that of the representative body of the people. Nor are the inhabitants of this state controllable by any other laws than those to which they, or their representative body, have given their consent.

HISTORY OF NEW HAMPSHIRE

GEOGRAPHICAL LOCATION

New Hampshire is situated the most northern of the thirteen original states and lies between latitude 42-40 and 45-18 north and longitude 70-37 and 72-37 west. It is about 180 miles long and 50 miles wide, although the extreme width is 93 miles.

It is bounded on the north by Quebec province in Canada, on the east by Maine and the Atlantic ocean, on the south by Massachusetts, and on the west by Vermont. The Connecticut River is the western boundary.

"MOTHER OF RIVERS"

Geographies sometimes speak of the state as the "Mother of Rivers." Five of the great streams of New England originate in its granite hills. The Connecticut River rises in the northern part, and for nearly one hundred miles of its winding course hems the shores of the state with a "broad seam of silver." The Pemigewasset River starts in the Profile Lake in the Franconia mountains and joins the Winnipesaukee at Franklin to form the Merrimack, which at one time turned more spindles than any other river in the world. The Cocheco and Salmon Falls rivers join at Dover to form the Piscataqua. In addition, two of the principal rivers of Maine, the Androscoggin and the Saco, have their beginnings in northern New Hampshire.

New Hampshire has 1300 lakes or ponds and 40,000 miles of rivers and streams which provide year round fishing and recreation in scenic surroundings, as well as power for the State's many industries.

"THE GRANITE STATE"

New Hampshire is commonly known as the Granite State, and of late years by some writers is called the Queen State — "Queen by right of her natural beauty; queen by her native hardy spirit; queen by her diversified industry; queen by reason of her motherhood of great men. She is enthroned on hills of granite, diademed with sparkling waters and sceptered with industry."

The state entertains annually over a million summer visitors, who resort in the mountain, lake and seashore scenery,—in fact it has been estimated that a million automobiles cross our borders annually! The soil is suitable for fruits, flowers and vegetables. The forests of pine, spruce and hard wood add beauty to the landscape and wealth to the land.

The White Mountains are the natural feature which has the widest fame. New Hampshire bodies of water cover one hundred and fifteen thousand acres and vary from small ponds to Lake Winnipesaukee, which is twenty-two miles long and eight miles wide.

New Hampshire's publicly-owned aerial tramway, the first erected to a mountain top in North America, is located in Franconia Notch near The Old Man of the Mountain. Its cars have carried 1,700,000 passengers in their eight-minute ascent of the 2022 feet to the top.

No state grows apples of finer flavor than come from the hillsides of New Hampshire. Horticultural shows have no better exhibits than are presented from towns in the southern part of this state, where the orchards have been sprayed and treated by the latest scientific methods. Strawberries, blueberries, peaches and products of the garden are grown in great quantities and shipped hundreds of miles.

New Hampshire is also famous for her products made from the sap of the maple tree.

Dairying is a large business and in recent years the quality of the herds has increased tenfold. There are 5,779,840 acres of land in the state, 1,960,061 acres being in farm land, with the number of farms estimated at 16,554, according to the 1940 farm census. There were over two and one-half million acres of timber land, which contained over thirty billion feet of merchantable timber, but the disastrous hurricane of 1938 has sadly depleted the standing timber in New Hampshire's granite hills.

It is estimated that every year more than four million dollars is permanently invested in the purchase of land and the construction of buildings in the rural districts. Nearly every town has some summer visitors. Winnipesaukee shores are lined with cottages and hotels; Sunapee has a summer population of over five thousand, who enjoy its beauties.

The state has a seaboard of about eighteen miles. Hampton and Rye beaches have been famous summer resorts since the days Whittier pitched his "tent on the beach." The salt waves of the Atlantic lap the sometimes sandy, sometimes rocky coast into one continuous pleasure ground, where surf bathing and scenic beauty enchant the visitor. In the early fall of 1915 a disastrous fire at Hampton Beach destroyed many of the hotels and places of business there, but the resort has since been rebuilt from the ruins until it is larger and more attractive than ever. The recreational area at Hampton Beach has greatly improved the appearance of that part of the coast. The state maintains a large public bath house and a parking area there. The erection of a sea wall in 1934 not only improved the property along the coast, but was a necessary measure against coast erosion.

Among New Hampshire's all-year, all-season recreation attractions, none are more popular than its winter sports. Mount Washington is the highest mountain east of the Rockies and north of the Mason-Dixon Line. Its privately-owned cog railway was the first mountain climbing railway in the world.

New Hampshire has some of the finest ski terrain in the east where the sport may be enjoyed well into July and August. Its many lifts include the widely known Cranmore skimobile, operated all year, and Tuckerman, Cannon, Sunapee and Gilford slopes.

Portsmouth, the only sea city, has an historic past and a prosperous present with its large navy yard. New Castle is a place of romance and aesthetic beauty and adventure. A large part of the Isles of Shoals in Portsmouth harbor belongs to New Hampshire, with their cottages and hotels. Lobster fishermen find the Isles of Shoals and the New Hampshire coast favorable areas for taking this famous sea food. The state highways are as fine as any state can boast of and are kept in excellent driving condition the year round. New Hampshire is open to visitors, from the coast to the mountains, twelve months in the year.

FISH AND GAME

In 1865 New Hampshire joined the vanguard of American science by establishing a fish and game department, the first one of its kind in New England. Since that date, some eighty odd years ago, the efforts of this department have been devoted to the propagation and conservation of fish and game.

In modern times the cultivation of fish and the protection of wild life have demanded the application of scientific methods quite as much as any other element of our life. It is a known fact that while European countries have found vast resources in their shore fisheries, the United States is by no means able to rely on her coast fisheries, and has thus been obliged to develop her inland waters to meet the needs that otherwise could have been met only by importation from other countries. Moreover, while Europe's supply is bound to lessen in time to come, our supply will continue to increase.

Today, New Hampshire's Fish & Game Department employs a balanced team of trained wildlife men, fish culturists, and law enforcement officers to maintain and increase the available supplies of her native species under the pressure of vastly increased demand. To do so means that every one of her waters and every bit of cover must be contributing its full share to the state's crop. Research personnel are constantly exploring new avenues to increase natural productivity, while evaluating the results of current practices.

Since World War II, a program of modernization and expansion of fish rearing facilities has more than doubled the annual output available for stocking. Beautiful new rearing stations which rank with any in the country for modern design and efficient operation have been built at Merrymeeting Lake, New Durham, at Summer Brook in Ossipee, and at Merrimack, between Manchester and Nashua. Five other stations at Colebrook, Twin Mountain, Warren, New Hampton, and Richmond have been completely reconditioned.

Fish and game is now recognized as a major factor in the recreation business which is one of New Hampshire's foremost sources of revenue. We can be justly proud of the effective teamwork between department personnel and the sportsmen of the state who are looking forward with the eyes of true conservationists to establishing the fish and wildlife species of our state on a secure footing for future years. Deer, grouse, black bear, snowshoe hares, landlocked salmon, togue, black bass, and several species of brook trout are only a few of the wild residents which are to be found in such plenty as to make sportsmen choose New Hampshire first.

"COME TO NEW HAMPSHIRE"

New Hampshire believes in progress and development in every direction. It is the third most industrialized state in the Union and prizes itself on the quality and diversification of its products. New Hampshire is the home of the famous breed of poultry known as the "New Hampshires." She invites the whole world to visit her mountains, the "playground of America." Those seeking opportunity for profitable farming will do well to write for further information to the Commissioner of Agriculture, Concord, N. H.; sportsmen are invited to send for literature and advice to the Fish and Game Director, Concord, N, H.; those looking for business openings, either in manufacturing enterprises or in the retail field, should correspond with the New Hampshire Planning and Development Commission, Concord, N. H.

The Boston & Maine Railroad Publicity Bureau at Boston, Mass., Storrowton Village, Eastern States Exposition Grounds, West Springfield, Mass., the New Hampshire Manufacturers' Association and the New Hampshire Historical Society, Concord, N. NEW HAMPSHIRE

New Hampshire was one of the thirteen original colonies which revolted from English rule and founded the United States of America, one hundred and seventy-six years ago. When this continent was settled, New Hampshire was a part of a grant made in 1620 by James I, King of England, to the Plymouth Company, a commercial organization formed to develop the "new world."

It was the first of the original states to declare its independence and to adopt a constitution. As the ninth and deciding state to ratify the Federal Constitution it may be said to have "created" the United States.

The name of New Hampshire was first given to this section of the country in 1629, when the Plymouth Company gave a grant of part of its colonial possessions to Captain John Mason, a gentleman of Hampshire in England. New Hampshire in those days was roughly described as "that part of the main land of New England" between the Merrimack and Piscataqua rivers. It was more than a hundred years before the boundaries of the province of New Hampshire were definitely fixed, but once settled upon, in 1740 on the south and east and in 1764 on the west, these lines have remained practically intact to this day. There was, however, a long-standing dispute between New Hampshire and Vermont over the boundary line, a difference of opinion aggravated by the changing bed of the Connecticut River, which was definitely settled in 1936 thus ending a long legal dispute that lasted from 1915 to the time the markers were completed in August of 1936. The New Hampshire-Vermont boundary is described as "a line beginning at the apex of the granite monument which marks the southeast corner of Vermont and the southwest corner of New Hampshire, erected in 1897 under the supervision of commissioners of the two states, at low water mark on the west side of the Connecticut River and extending thence northerly along the western side of the river at low water mark, as the same is or would be if unaffected by improvements on the river, to the southerly line of the town of Pittsburg, New Hampshire. Such low water mark is hereby defined as the line drawn at the point to which the river recedes at its lowest stage, without reference to, and unaffected by extreme droughts, but subject to such changes as may hereafter be effected by erosion or accretion."

In 1622 a grant of part of New Hampshire was given by patent to Captain Mason and a partner, Sir Ferdinand Gorges, by the council of Plymouth. Robert Gorges was appointed the first governor, and he came to America two years later and assumed his office. Five years later the patent of Laconia was granted to a company of traders, but the extent of the company's jurisdiction was not definitely settled upon.

In 1629, the same year that the Laconian patent was granted, Captain Mason and his partner reached an agreement whereby Captain Mason took over the whole of New Hampshire and relinquished to his partner his rights on territory in Maine east of the Piscataqua River. The Council of Plymouth confirmed this division of territory.

In 1635 the Council of Plymouth re-issued its patent to Mason and then dissolved. A document purporting to be a charter directly from the king of England to Captain Mason, issued that same year, giving the captain the New Hampshire territory then held by him, is in existence, but whether or not this document is authentic is a question among historians.

The first settlement in New Hampshire was in Rye (then called "Little Harbor" and afterwards called Portsmouth,) in 1623, the second settlement at Dover in 1628, the third at Exeter in 1638, and the fourth at Hampton in 1639. The objects of these adventures into the primitive wilderness of New Hampshire were to clear the land for cultivation, to seek for the mineral wealth which was supposed to exist, to establish and carry on fisheries on the rivers, which teemed with fish, and along the coast, and to barter with the native Indian tribes of the locality.

The Massachusetts colonists had come to America to found settlements where they might have freedom in religious worship—a freedom which, however, they were unwilling to grant to any not of their faith. It was a day when religious opinions were paramount, and politics and legislation were subordinate, when creeds claimed precedence over rights. Unless a person subscribed unreservedly to the established creed he was a heretic. In such a class were the Quakers, Roger Williams, Anne Hutchinson and her brother-in-law, Rev. John Wheelwright, a man of superior endowments and high culture, who, disenfranchised and banished from Massachusetts, led forty of his exiled adherents into the wilderness of New Hampshire and settled Exeter in July, 1638.

Underlying these early settlements was a deep religious conviction, perhaps not so radical as in Massachusetts, but still present, which again manifests itself when the people of the state, while formulating a frame of government, gave the religious idea so prominent a place in the Bill of Rights.

CAPTAIN MASON'S EFFORTS

Charles I, for political and religious reasons, had granted Mason extraordinary rights and privileges. Mason had been not only a faithful adherent of the king, but also a devout and zealous supporter of the Church of England. It was inevitable therefore that his ideas of government and religion should be distasteful to the Massachusetts colonists so near at hand.

Mason's colony was, however, solely a business venture. He established no government over it. The settlements were under the immediate direction of agents commissiond by and answerable to the proprietor. They were ruled as a body of workmen are ruled—just as the Hudson Bay Company governs through its factors.

Mason died in 1635, and while his early efforts to occupy the lands allotted to him were persevering and meritorious, the founding of colonies was a matter requiring the expenditure of large sums of money, of which neither Mason nor his descendants had command, and his plans with regard to the colonization of New Hampshire failed of execution.

There was no provincial government in those days, but each town maintained its own government. Religious differences prevented as years went on the development of a central government, and in 1641 the New Hampshire towns resigned their jurisdiction to Massachusetts and became a part of Norfolk county of that province.

BECOMES ROYAL PROVINCE, 1679

After thirty-eight years as a part of Massachusetts, New Hampshire became a province of itself in 1679 by an order of the king of England, which was preceded by a decree of the English courts to the effect that Massachusetts had no right to extend its jurisdiction over New Hampshire.

King Charles II issued a commission to John Cutts of Portsmouth in that year to be president of the province and to govern it under the king, with aid of a council and assembly. This was the real beginning of constitutional government in this territory, which has continued without serious interruption to the present time.

The commission of the king reserved to him the right to veto all the acts of the provincial legislature and the right to dissolve the legislature at his pleasure. The New Hampshire settlers did not like this arrangement as well as they did the jurisdiction of Massachusetts.

The governors sent to the province by the king proved to be avaricious tyrants. Even the Lords of Trade in England would not uphold them in some of their actions, and time and again, at the instigation of the heirs of Captain Mason (the Masonian Proprietors, so called) the royal governors tried to force the people to surrender their titles to lands and take leases from the Masonian Proprietors.

THE MASONIAN CONTROVERSY

In 1690 the people, mindful of their former pleasant relations with Massachusetts, resolved on a second union with their old ally, and sent a petition to William and Mary of England.

Through the influence of Samuel Allen, who had bought out the interests of the Mason heirs, the king failed to grant this request, and the union, which had been accepted by Massachusetts, was short lived.

Allen was appointed governor and his son-in-law became his deputy. In this way were the claims of Mason's heirs, so abhorrent to the people, continued until the death of Allen's son early in the reign of Queen Anne. These suits and claims were finally settled in 1787 by compromise.

"There is probably no controversy on record that involved so many parties, continued so many years, and created so many law-suits as Mason's claim to New Hampshire. Kings and queens, nobles and plebeians, proprietors and counsellors, courts and legislatures for nearly a century were constantly agitating the question of the right of soil of this wild, rough and rocky state. Generation after generation of claimants died, but the controversy lived. Judges of the king's bench and of the state courts again and again decided cases at issue, but still the spirits which avarice had conjured up would not down at their bidding. The people outlived their prosecutors and the fire went out for want of fuel." (Sanborn, History of New Hampshire.)

For forty-three years, from 1698 until 1741, New Hampshire and Massachusetts were under the same governor, although each province maintained its identity. At the expiration of this period a new arrangement was made by which New Hampshire had one of its own sons, Benning Wentworth, appointed governor, and the provincial legislature was given increased authority.

He served for twenty-six years during an era of good feeling such as the colony had never before known. He was a benefactor of Moor's Indian School, which under his successor was chartered as Dartmouth College.

He was succeeded by his nephew, John Wentworth, in 1767 who also was well received by the people and by the assembly. As governor, he granted a charter to Dartmouth College and endowed it with forty-five thousand acres of land.

"He was universally beloved by the people. He had uniformly endeavored to promote the general public welfare by encouraging commerce, constructing highways, establishing courts and fostering learning." (Sanborn.)

But in 1774, as representative of King George III, he assisted General Gage in his work on fortifications in Boston. This brought down upon him the intense dislike of the revolutionary party and he fled from the state to Boston, where he might have the protection of General Gage. Still retaining the title of governor, he returned for a time to Fort William and Mary, from which place he issued a proclamation dissolving the assembly and shortly afterwards set sail for England. He was the last of royal governors.

Before Governor Wentworth quit, the provincial legislature took official action in regard to the revolution, and a committee of safety was organized. This committee summoned a revolutionary assembly, which met in Exeter and was known as the First Provincial Congress. Four other congresses of similar character followed.

The last meeting of the old provincial assembly took place in 1775. The same year the American Continental Congress gave the New Hampshire revolutionists the right to set up a new government.

THE REVOLUTIONARY WAR

About one-half of the soldiers at the Battle of Bunker Hill were New Hampshire troops under the command of such leaders as John Stark, James Reid, and Enoch Poor. Throughout the struggle for independence the revolutionary state government, under the direction of the committee of safety, of which Meshech Weare was president, furnished troops in large numbers.

General John Sullivan distinguished himself on many battlefields, and the exploits of General Stark at Bennington are incidents of renown. It was largely the New Hampshire forces which brought about the surrender of Burgoyne.

With the close of the Revolution this state entered actively into the organization of the federal government. John Langdon, one of the early governors, was the first president of the United States senate, and was nominated for vice-president of the nation.

In 1780 a petition by the slaves for freedom was circulated in this state. Dartmouth College began to develop about that time and the legislature gave the college the right to raise money by a lottery. In 1792 the first bank was chartered to do business, and the year before, the State Medical Society was founded, with Governor Joseph Bartlett at its head. In 1796 the first turnpike and state highway from Concord to Portsmouth was chartered.

SECOND WAR WITH ENGLAND

When the second war with England broke out in 1812 Governor John Langdon drafted thirty-five hundred men at the request of the president. The state militia at that time was in its most flourishing condition and consisted of three divisions, six brigades and thirty-seven regiments.

William Plumer succeeded to the governorship before hostilities had advanced, and he organized the first regiment of New Hampshire volunteers, which later became part of the regular army. In 1813 there was a political overturn, in which former Governor John T. Gilman defeated Governor Plumer for re-election. Governor Gilman was head of the Federalist party in the state, and its return to power was celebrated by abolishing the courts and turning out the judges and other officers. The Federalists were opposed to the war, but all the people, regardless of party, became afraid of English invasion and were solid in defense of the state. The inhabitants of Portsmouth in particular were frightened on several occasions of a British landing and attack, and Governor Gilman summoned the entire militia to the defense of that city.

A native of New Hampshire, Lewis Cass of Exeter, achieved military distinction in Michigan. He was later a senator from that state, candidate for the presidency in 1848 and the secretary of state under Buchanan. In 1814 a secessionary gathering was held at Hartford, Connecticut, at which delegates were present from most of the New England states. Governor Gilman was blocked in his efforts to secure New Hampshire representation at the convention by three of his councilors, who were Democrats.

DARTMOUTH "UNIVERSITY"

In 1815 a very destructive tempest occurred. That same year there was a political tempest, when former Governor Plumer was returned to power and the judges and office-holders were again addressed out of office. The state house was located on its present site during the 1815 administration. A controversy arose over Dartmouth College, which for several years was a paramount issue in state politics. The legislature changed the name to Dartmouth University and reorganized the government of the institution, but the United States Supreme Court ruled that the legislature could not overturn a charter that had been granted by the king.

In 1817 President James Monroe visited the state, and there was an era of political good feeling which lasted for many years. In 1819 the use of the power-loom was commenced at the Amoskeag Mills in Manchester, and from that time these mills developed until they became the largest in the world. A most destructive freshet in 1824 destroyed the bridges over the Merrimack river and damaged a good deal of property.

General Lafayette visited the state in 1824 and was received with the greatest enthusiasm. In 1833 President Andrew Jackson rode on horseback into Concord, accompanied by his vice-president, Martin Van Buren, his secretary of war, Lewis Cass, who was a native of Exeter; and his secretary of the navy, Levi Woodbury of Portsmouth. Partisan feeling was bitter in those days and the celebration was indulged in principally by Democrats.

DEVELOPMENT OF INDUSTRY

In 1835 and subsequent years railroads were chartered and constructed in all parts of the state and a period of great commercial development was inaugurated. This led to the growth of several towns on the railroad into cities. Chief among these was Manchester, which had a fortunate location at Amoskeag Falls, and in 1846 it was incorporated as a city.

The war with Mexico broke out that year, and although there was no great enthusiasm for the war in New Hampshire, many sons of the state, such as Franklin Pierce, John Bedell and Dr. John D. Walker, took a prominent part in the military activities. After the war many other young men emigrated to the fertile prairies of the West.

In 1850 the entire expenses of the legislative, executive and judicial departments of the state government amounted to only $36,000.

During that year a convention was held to revise the Constitution, and Franklin Pierce was its president. Two years later he was elected president of the United States, receiving the support of all but four states in the Union.

Before the Pierce administration was through the Democratic party lost control of New Hampshire. In 1855 the American or Know-Nothing party elected Ralph Metcalf governor and John P. Hale senator. From this party there developed the Republican organization, which was in power through the Civil War and for nearly twenty years after. St. Paul's School in Concord was opened in 1856 and is one of the most select preparatory institutions in the country.

THE CIVIL WAR

In 1861 the Civil War broke out. During the first year of the war New Hampshire sent eight regiments of the infantry to the front, and during the second year nine more, and in 1864 still another. Altogether about thirty-nine thousand men went from this state to fight for the preservation of the union. Nineteen hundred were killed in action or died of wounds, twenty-five hundred died of disease and two hundred and eighty-five were missing. About sixteen hundred men re-enlisted after their first term of service.

In 1866 a railroad was built up Mount Washington. The following year the department of public instruction was established and from that time the state has enjoyed universal common school education. In 1874 the Democratic party obtained control of all branches of the government for the first time since the war, and there was a complete overturn in offices. In 1878 there was a revision of the laws of the state, the new prison was built, and the militia was reorganized. Biennial elections were substituted for annual elections by an amendment to the Constitution that year. In 1887 there took place a very bitter railroad struggle in the legislature between the Concord railroad and the Boston & Maine railroad. This was followed by an organization of the Boston & Maine system throughout northern New England on a basis of leases, the New Hampshire railroads all leasing to the Boston & Maine. An attempt to reorganize the railroad by modifying or breaking the lease in 1915 and 1916 failed, and in the latter year the road went into receivership.

The history of the state since 1888 is within the memory of the generation now living and to recite it would be beyond the scope of this legislative manual, which is designed more to preserve facts concerning the early days of the state's history. For the past fifty years New Hampshire has grown in every way. Her industries have flourished, her population has increased, her churches, schools, and colleges have expanded, and her attractions as a summer resort have become known to all the world.

THE STATE HOUSE

The seat of government is at the state house in Concord and has been for over 135 years although the present capitol building is only 133 years old and has been twice remodelled. Twice have strenuous efforts been made to remove the capital to Manchester, the largest city in the state.

During the Revolutionary War the seat of government was at Exeter and all the sessions of the provincial congress or convention and the colonial house of representatives were held in that academic town. The first six sessions of the state legislature assembled at Exeter also. In 1777 the legislature met at Portsmouth for a change and again in 1780, but all the other meetings took place at Exeter until 1782, when Concord became the capital. From then until 1807 the legislature met at various places, including Concord, Exeter, Portsmouth, Hopkinton, Charlestown, Dover and Amherst. Concord sessions in those days and in the later period from 1807 to 1819 took place in the old town house that stood on the site of the Merrimack county building of today.

The state house was built in 1816 to 1819 and cost $82,000. On Tuesday, September 24, 1816, the corner stone was laid. The building was completed, and the legislature first convened in it, in June, 1819. The lot of land, consisting of about two acres, was given by the town and the stone for the building was taken out of "Rattlesnake Hill" and dressed by convicts at the state prison. At the first legislature that sat in it there were twelve senators and one hundred and ninety-two representatives.

During the Civil War the state house was too small to accommodate the legislature and officials. Manchester offered to build a new one to cost $500,000 and give it to the state for the honor of becoming the seat of government and one of the greatest and closest battles in the history of the legislature was fought over this proposition. Manchester was defeated and instead of moving, the state decided to enlarge and remodel the old building, which was done in 1864-66.

The building was remodeled after the architecture of the Hotel Des Invalides in Paris and from that day to this it has been regarded as one of the most meritorious structures from an architectural viewpoint that there is in the country. The government outgrew the building again in 1909 so that an addition was built on, which placed the state house in its present form. Before the addition was made Manchester made its second attempt to become the capital by offering $1,000,000 to build a new building. The struggle between the two cities was fought all over again with the same result.

The cost of the first remodeling of the building was about $200,000, and of the second, $400,000.

One of the interesting attractions in the state house is the gallery of portraits in the principal offices and corridors. These portraits are of famous sons of the state, including the heroes of civil and military life, former governors, senators, secretaries of state and others.

Another noted attraction is the hall of flags in the foyer of the state house. Here are displayed many of the old provincial banners and the regimental colors of some of New Hampshire's finest. Some of these old flags were actually carried in decisive battles on the bloody fields of a hard-worn independence and are an integral part of New Hampshire's interesting background.

By 1937, with many of the state's large and important departments scattered over the city of Concord in privately-owned buildings, it became increasingly evident that additional offices were a growing necessity. In the past two decades, state and federal government had grown by leaps and bounds and once again the state house was no longer adequate to house its rapidly growing and increasing family.

Governor Francis Parnell Murphy, in his message to the incoming legislature, on January 7, 1937, recommended the construction of a state office building adjacent to the state house, pointing out that the constantly mounting cost of rentals for outside space would go far towards defraying carrying charges and amortizing bonds for a new structure. He stressed the increase in efficiency of the departments and the reduction in costs of operation with the state government under one roof, so to speak, whereas many of the departments were fully half a mile away from the state house at that time. Furthermore, the general public, seeking contact with the various branches of state government, would find it decidedly more convenient to find their government all in one place rather than so widely scattered and so difficult to locate.

On July 21, 1937, the legislature appropriated $600,000 to be expended, together with such sums as might be received from the federal government, for the erection of a state house annex. The governor and council commissioned Wells, Hudson and Granger, Architects of Hanover, New Hampshire, to draw plans and specifications for a state office building or annex.

An application for federal assistance was immediately made by Governor Murphy, but the federal public works administration had already allocated all grants for aid on such building projects and it looked doubtful that New Hampshire would receive an appropriation although the application was pending. The project was dormant until early in 1938 when Governor Murphy again made personal appeal for assistance when it became known that additional appropriations had been granted for the federal works building program.

By extraordinary good fortune this project became number one on the list for the entire nation and, in June, 1938, New Hampshire received a grant of $288,000. Later a credit on the sums invested in the building site was granted, making a total grant of $327,000

The corner stone for this newest addition to the state house was laid by Governor Murphy on October 25, 1938 and the building was completed on October 27, 1939. The first department to take up quarters in the new annex being the New Hampshire state police department. The building was officially dedicated on January 18, 1940. It houses twenty-one separate department offices with upward of 450 employees and is connected by an underground tunnel with the state house.

As parts of Massachusetts Bay Colony (1641-3 to 1679) the towns of Hampton Exeter, Dover, and Strawberry Bank were comprised within Norfolk county, which was one of the four shires, viz., Essex, Middlesex, Suffolk, and Norfolk, into which the Bay Colony was separated from "3d month, 10th day 1643."

The Province of New Hampshire agitated the subject of county establishment for years previous to decisive action in 1769, one plan, which came to nought in 1755, being to make two counties, Portsmouth and Cumberland, with the Merrimack as the dividing line.

The act which passed April 29, 1769, contained the provision that it should not take effect until "his majesty's royal approbation thereof be known," and the further provision that "said counties of Strafford and Grafton shall be for the present annexed to and deemed and taken as parts and members of the County of Rockingham * * * until the governor by and with the advice of the council shall declare them respectively sufficient for the exercise of their respective jurisdictions and no longer." Governor John Wentworth, in a message to the house of representatives in March, 1771, said "It gives me great pleasure to inform you that his majesty has been graciously pleased to approve and confirm the act for dividing this Province into counties." The existence of Rockingham, Hillsborough, and Cheshire counties began on March 19, 1771, Strafford and Grafton having received authority to exercise and enjoy county privileges, as set forth in Governor John Wentworth's message to the house on May 28, 1772, their separation from Rockingham became effective on June 5, 1773, by the terms of the act of February 5, 1773, "fixing the times and places for holding courts in * * * Grafton county," four months being allowed for the building of "prisons, court houses," etc.

THE COUNTIES

When New Hampshire was a part of the colony of Massachusetts Bay, from 1641 to 1679, the principal towns of New Hampshire were part of Norfolk county in Massachusetts. New Hampshire did not divide herself into counties, however, until 1769, six years before the Revolution. In that year the five counties of Rockingham, Strafford, Hillsborough, Cheshire and Grafton were established.

Coos was the sixth county, established in 1803. Merrimack was established in 1823, Sullivan in 1827, and Belknap and Carroll in 1840. Since the original division into counties the legislature on twenty occasions has amended and changed the layout. The following is a list of counties in their customary order, giving the name of each, the date of its establishment and the place of the county seat.

Name	Date	County Seat
Rockingham	1769	Exeter
Strafford	1769	Dover
Belknap	1840	Laconia
Carroll	1840	Ossipee
Merrimack	1823	Concord
Hillsborough	1769	Nashua
Cheshire	1769	Keene
Sullivan	1827	Newport
Grafton	1769	Haverhill
Coos	1803	Lancaster

It was named for Cheshire county in England and includes the city of Keene and twenty-two towns.

Sullivan county is in the west central part of the state, and like Cheshire county, was embroiled in early boundary disputes. It was named for John Sullivan, a general in the Revolutionary army and later governor, and includes the city of Claremont and fourteen towns.

Grafton county is in the northwestern part of the state and large parts of it are sparsely settled. It was named for an English nobleman and includes thirty-nine towns.

THE CITIES

Berlin was granted in 1771 to Sir William Mayne and others and named "Maynesborough" in honor of the grantee. The first settlement was made in 1821 by William Sessions. Claremont was granted in 1764 to Josiah Willard of Winchester and sixty-eight others. Shares were reserved for Governor Benning Wentworth, the Church of England, the first minister, each school and the propagation of the gospel, and all the white pine trees were reserved for the King's Navy. Three of the grantees settled there, Samuel Ashley and his two sons, Samuel Ashley, Jr., and Oliver Ashley. Doctor William Sumner and his brother, Benjamin Sumner, who were respectively the father and uncle of Clement Sumner, another grantee, were among the first settlers. The first meeting of the proprietors was held in Winchester in 1767 and the second in Claremont later the same year. A tract of five hundred acres was laid out as "the governor's farm," and forty acres were given to William Porter for doing settlement duty. On their arrival in Claremont the proprietors found two "squatters," Moses Spofford and David Lynde, who are said to have settled as early as 1762, and in 1763 was born in a log cabin Elijah Spofford, the first white child in town. In 1767 Benjamin Tyler came from Connecticut and built a mill on the Sugar river. Later he brought ore from Charlestown and started a forge and smelting works, and later still built a flax mill. The town was incorporated in 1733 by Massachusetts and the name changed to "Rumford." It was reincorporated in 1765 by New Hampshire and the name changed to Concord. There was a long standing dispute between New Hampshire's grant of 1727 and the Massachusetts grant, which the king settled in 1762 in favor of "Rumford." Parts of Canterbury and Loudon were annexed in 1784 and part of Bow in 1804. Concord became the seat of government about 1800. The settlement at the falls of the river, now the compact part of the city, was called "Cocheco," an Indian word meaning foaming water. Dover suffered severely at the hands of the Indians through its early history, and in 1689, when Major Richard Waldron was in command of the militia, became the victim of a massacre which nearly destroyed the settlement. In 1713 Newington was set off as a parish; in 1729, Somersworth; in 1732, Durham; and in 1755, Madbury. In 1792 the legislature met here. Dover became a city in 1855. In 1763 part of the town, known as "One Pine Hill," was annexed to Hollis, and in 1773 additional territory was annexed to the same town. Troy was incorporated in 1815 from parts of Marlborough, Fitzwilliam, Swanzey and Richmond and named in honor of the ancient city. The first person to settle on territory now within the town was William Barker, a native of Westborough, Mass., who came in 1761 and settled in the west part. Some three or four years later Silas Fife came from Bolton, Mass., and settled in the east part. As the inhabitants increased, quite a settlement was made on the border between Fitzwilliam and Marlborough, which was easier of access than the center of these towns and more convenient for transacting business, so that about 1781 the question of forming a new town was agitated. The agitation kept recurrring, and each time was vigorously opposed by the towns interested until 1815, when they allowed the act of incorporation to go through. The town comprises an area of a little more than twelve miles. The boundary between Troy and Marlborough was established in 1847, and in 1870 part of Troy was annexed to Marlborough. The charter was renewed in 1761. In 1773 Mr. Bellows was given ferry privileges across the Connecticut. In 1783 the right to build a toll bridge at Bellows Falls was granted Colonel Enoch Hale. The name was changed from "Monadnock No. 8" to "New Concord," then to "Camden," and finally, in 1776, to Washington, and it was incorporated in honor to George Washington. This was the first town in the country to take the name of the first president. The first settlers in Washington came in 1768 from New Ipswich and other places, some of them from Massachusetts. Among the early settlers whose descendants still live in the town, or did until recently, were Jacob Burbank, Ebenezer Spaulding, David Lowell, Ephraim Severence, John Safford, Samuel Copeland, Jonathan Brockway and Simeon Farnsworth. In 1744 a petition signed by several residents, including John Cram, John Dale, Joseph Cram, Jonathan Cram, Ephraim Putnam, Samuel Putnam, Benjamin Cram and John Stephens, was presented to Governor Wentworth, praying for protection against the Indians. The town was surveyed originally as five miles square, divided into ten ranges of twenty lots of land each. Each lot was 160 by 80 rods. In 1762 the town was incorporated and the name changed to Wilton after an English town. In 1768 the tenth range of the town was taken to help make the incorporation of Temple. Ancestors of Reverend Lyman Abbott of New York City, a famous editor and preacher, lived in Wilton as early as 1765, one member of the family inventing a machine for making starch in 1811 and conducting a business in Wilton. The Masonian Proprietors at an unknown date annexed part of Lyndeborough to Wilton. In 1869 a freshet carried away every bridge in town, with mill and dams, and did a damage of $150,000. Hillsborough county, second congressional, fourth councilor and twelfth senatorial districts.

Winchester was granted in 1733 by the Massachusetts Colony to Josiah Willard and others, and was first called "Earlington." Later, for some cause yet undiscovered, the name was changed to "Arlington," which later was changed to "Winchester," after an English city, from which some of the ancestors of the grantees are said to have come. As originally granted, the township was of the contents of six miles square, and it was shaped like the block letter L, and "lay to the eastward and northward of Northfield." Its southeastern corner was established practically as it now is, while its northwestern corner was at the Connecticut river, where Brattleboro, Vt., now is, and at the present corner of Hinsdale and Chesterfield at this point. In 1744 "the New Province line" was established between Massachusetts and New Hampshire. This line severed from Winchester about two thousand acres, which later became a part of Warwick, Mass., and divided the township of Northfield nearly in the middle, leaving a portion in each province. In 1753 New Hampshire granted to Josiah Willard and his associates all that territory lying between Winchester's east line and the Connecticut river, under the name of Winchester, with the proviso that the township so incorporated might be divided. This provision was promptly (in the same year) acted upon; and upon the petition of Col. Ebenezer Hinsdale and others the township of Hinsdale was set off. The southwesterly corner of Winchester was fixed at a point in the New Province line eighty rods eastwardly from the Connecticut river, and thence Winchester's westerly line ran due north, "by the needle," till it intersected the original east and west line on the north boundary. By this, Winchester received a large portion of the old Northfield grant on its southwest corner and lost a considerable area on its northwesterly border. This allotment of territory continued unchanged for ninety-seven years. In 1850 a small triangular corner was taken from the northwest corner of Richmond and annexed to Winchester. Cheshire county, second congressional, fourth councilor and eleventh senatorial districts.

Windham was set off from Londonderry and incorporated in 1741 and named after an English town. The first grant of land in what is now Windham was one of five hundred acres made by the legislature of Massachusetts to Rev. Thomas Cobbett of Ipswich, Mass., in 1662. The exact location is not known, but it was on the shore of what is now Cobbett's Pond. The first settlement was made about 1720. John Waddell occupied the first house. David Gregg and Alexander McCoy settled the following year. The line between Windham and Salem was established in 1752, part of Windham being annexed to Salem. Part of Londonderry was annexed in 1777 and another part the following year. The line between Londonderry and Windham was established in 1782 and an additional part of Londonderry was annexed in 1805. It is one of the smallest towns, both in area and population. Hillsborough county, second congressional, fourth councilor and ninth senatorial districts.

Wolfeboro was granted in 1759 by the Masonian Proprietors to William E. Treadwell and others. This grant was taken from a large tract of land called "Kingswood" and named "Wolfborough" in honor of General Wolfe, the hero of Quebec. Nearly a century afterwards, by special act of congress, the spelling was changed to Wolfeboro. Four additions have since been made to the town on the sides now bounded by towns of Alton. Wakefield and Tuftonboro. Wolfeboro was incorporated in 1770. Not until 1768 were there any permanent inhabitants. Among the early settlers were Benjamin Blake, William Fullerton, Ruben Libby, Ebenezer Meader, Thomas Piper and Henry Rust. In 1858 a small part of Tuftonboro was annexed. Wolfeboro was the summer home of John Wentworth, the last provincial governor, and he did much for this new settlement. The foundations of his commodious mansion still remain and are visited by tourists. Brewster Free academy, a preparatory school of recognized standing, is located in Wolfeboro. Carroll county, first congressional, first councilor and fourth senatorial districts.

Woodstock was granted in 1763 to Eli Demerit and others and incorporated with the name "Peeling." It was regranted in 1771 to Nathaniel Cushman and others and the name changed to "Fairfield." Revolutionary Councilors, 1776—84

Article 60 of the second part of the constitution provides for an executive council of five men to advise and act with the governor. Before the constitution there was a council both under the temporary constitution of the Revolution and under the provincial government. Since 1913 councilors have been elected by plurality vote to represent population but previously to that they were elected by majority vote to represent property, and in the colonial days they were appointed.

The following is a complete list of all the councilors since the Revolution giving the name and address of each and the year in which he was elected or appointed.

THE SENATE

The senate began under the constitution and first met in 1784. There were at first twelve senators who represented the five counties that then existed, five senators from Rockingham county, two from Strafford, two from Hillsborough, two from Cheshire, and one from Grafton. In 1793 senatorial districts were created to take the place of county representation and each district elected one senator. The elections during the early years took place in March and the legislature met in June annually.

The senatorial districting of 1793 was changed over in 1803 and several times subsequently. In 1878 the senate was doubled in size. In 1915 the senators were elected by plurality instead of majority vote. The following is a complete list of the senators from the beginning, showing the name and residence of each member of each senate, arranged in the order of districts from 1793, when the districts were created, and previous to that year, in the order of counties.

POPULATION OF NEW HAMPSHIRE, BY COUNTIES

APRIL 1, 1950

Population of the State. New Hampshire was one of the original thirteen States. The rural areas grew faster than the urban areas in the ten-year period between 1940-50, according to figures of the Seventeenth Decennial Census, issued by the Federal Census Bureau. This period has thus continued a trend towards greater concentration of population in urban areas, which lasted from 1820 to 1930.

The first census of New Hampshire was taken in 1790, returning a population of 141,885. The population has increased with every census since that time except that of 1870, which showed a slight loss as compared with 1860. The population passed 200,000 between 1800 and 1810; 300,000 between 1840 and 1850; and 400,000 between 1890 and 1900. From a long-range point of view, population growth in the State has tended to become less rapid, although there has been a slight acceleration since 1920. New Hampshire's total land area is 9,024 square miles.

The population of New Hampshire as of April 1, 1950, was 529,880, according to a preliminary count of the returns of the 1950 Decennial Census of Population, reported by Roy V. Peel, Director, Bureau of the Census, Department of Commerce. This figure represents a gain of 38,356, or 7.8 per cent, over the 491,524 inhabitants of the State enumerated in the 1940 Census.

The preliminary population counts shown below represent the number of persons enumerated in the State, each county, each town, and each incorporated place of 1,000 or more, but not the final verified population totals. The final population totals may differ from the preliminary counts because of the allocation to the place of usual residence of persons who were enumerated elsewhere, the inclusion of crews of vessels docked within an area but not included in the preliminary count, and because of other revisions.

REPUBLICAN ORGANIZATION

September 27, 1950

We, Republicans of New Hampshire in convention assembled on the twenty-seventh day of September, 1950, dedicate ourselves to the preservation of free government by free men. Today freedom everywhere is threatened by totalitarian aggression. In Korea our young men under the United Nations are fighting and dying to repel the evil forces of communism. This war in Korea is directly traceable to the blunders of the Democrat national administration in foreign affairs.

The Democrat national administrations in power now for more than eighteen years, have never clearly understood the danger of communism as a conspiracy against a free world. These administrations have made fatal compromises with communism abroad and have coddled communists and fellow travelers at home. In the face of obvious threats to our safety the present Democrat administration has failed in its responsibility to prepare the nation's defense. After eighteen years of Democrat rule we find ourselves committed everywhere and prepared nowhere. These years have been characterized by deficit financing and ever increasing national debt. The increasing costs of national defense are adding to the stifling burden of taxes, yet the Democrat administration has refused to reduce its over-expanded bureaucracy or to economize in public expenditures not related to the national defenses.

Our country needs new policies and new leadership which only the Republican party can provide. The Republican party has had no traffic with communism abroad or communists at home. We favor a strong policy to prevent the spread of communism in the free world and a vigorous enforcement of existing laws against communists here. We favor the maintenance of our armed forces at a strength completely adequate for the security of our people. We shall support such changes in the United Nations as may be necessary to make it an effective agency for the establishment of law and peace throughout the world. We demand the reduction of national expenditures not related to the war effort and the reorganization of the federal government in accordance with the recommendations of the Hoover Commission with resulting savings in federal costs. We are opposed to the socialistic policies of the Democrat party and re-affirm the declaration of policies and principles of the Republican party as contained in its platform adopted at Philadelphia in 1948. The election of a Republican Congress is imperative to prevent the further deterioration of our national interests.

The Republican Record

In marked contrast to the Democrat record in national affairs is the Republican record in this state. Under successive Republican administrations, sound fiscal policies have been maintained and progressive legislation enacted. The present administration has a notable record of achievement, including the following major accomplishments:

The reorganization of the state government accomplished with thoroughness, speed and economy.

The reclassification of state employees with provision for review to adjust inequities.

A sound fiscal policy on a "pay-as-you-go" basis.

A thorough-going industrial survey for the expansion of existing industry and the development of new business.

A forest conservation law to promote good forestry practices without mandatory regulations, and to restore and conserve our timber resources.

Civilian defense so efficiently organized as to serve as a pattern for other states.

Comprehensive plans for the improvement of primary, state aid and secondary highways and for the development of recreational resources.

Our Candidates

Our candidate for governor, Sherman Adams, brought to the governorship a background of able business leadership as well as state and national legislative experience. Businesslike efficiency and an outstanding ability for constructive administration have marked his first term in office.

We are proud of and strongly endorse the distinguished services of our Republican members in Congress, and we urge the reelection of Senator Charles W. Tobey, Congressman Chester E. Merrow and Congressman Norris Cotton. Their records and experience inspire our confidence that they will continue to maintain the high standards of the Republican Party. They are entitled to and will have our united support. We pledge the same unity of support to all Republican candidates selected at the recent primary.

Finance and Taxation

We have made, and we will continue to make, every reasonable economy in the administration of state government. The Republican Party recognizes the obligations which state government must assume in maintaining both an adequate and an equitable tax system. It recognizes as well that the burden of taxation must be based upon the ability to pay, and that the prospect of increasing federal taxation because of the international emergency may create hardships which still further necessitate the most careful prudence in state spending.

Any further increases in state expenditure must be met by increased revenue. To promise increased services or financial support to our towns and cities, without providing the means to pay their costs is both dishonest and foolhardy. We are resolutely committed to the Republican policy of "pay as you go," and a balanced budget.

The accomplishments of the present administration in conducting the affairs of the state government on an efficient businesslike basis are matters of public record. We will maintain the highest standards of service consistent with prudent, economical management. To support these services we will ask only such revenues from the taxpayers as may be required, and we pledge our continued effort to maintain taxes at a level as low as is consistent with the standards of decent service.

Agriculture

A prosperous agriculture is essential to the prosperity of the State and the development of our agricultural resources has long had the support of the state. We pledge continued co-operation with our farmers through existing state agencies in the development and expansion of our agriculture and the distribution and sale of farm products. We recognize the need for promotional advertising of our farms and our farm products. We favor continued expansion of the Extension Service at the State University and the adequate support of the College of Agriculture to provide specialized training and education for our farmers, and especially our young men and women on whom the future of our farms depend. We pledge continued support of the programs to eradicate animal, poultry and apiary diseases.

We condemn the present inequitable federal price support policy, which as in the case of grain, penalizes our dairymen and poultrymen. We are oposed to the Brannan Plan which would regiment our farmers and make them dependent upon federal subsidies for their existence. We recognize the need for a sound national agricultural program which gives reasonable protection to agricultural prices without being an incentive to over-production, which will keep the farmer from suffering serious loss, which will tend to correct agricultural production through economic factors instead of governmental controls and which will foster free enterprise for agriculture rather than regimentation.

Labor

In this field the Republican Party has a long record of progressive legislation. We established factory inspection, workmen's compensation, unemployment compensation and minimum wage legislation in advance of most states. In accordance with our general policy of adapting labor legislation to changing conditions, we have over the years strengthened and enlarged the Department of Labor. The present Republican administration has increased workmen's compensation, unemployment compensation and minimum wages. We favor extending the law relating to the weekly payment of wages and the strengthening thereof to assure prompt compliance therewith. We favor the representation of labor in all administrative boards or commissions established for the consideration of labor problems. We pledge continuing study to improve our labor legislation in the light of experience and changing conditions.

In the field of labor-management relations we have promoted mediation and arbitration on a voluntary basis. In re-affirming the right of collective bargaining, we recognize that collective bargaining is an obligation as well as a right, applying equally to workers and employers, and that the fundamental right to strike is subordinate only to paramount considerations of public health and safety. Here, government's chief function should be to encourage co-operation, and where resort is had to intervention, to be impartial, prevent violence and require obedience to the law by all parties involved.

Education

Equality of educational opportunity must be a primary objective of our educational system. To achieve this end we favor state financial assistance to our municipalities for both elementary and secondary education.

We recognize the importance to the state of the University of New Hampshire as evidenced by its continued high enrollment. We pledge a continuation of the University program at a level consistent with the needs of New Hampshire youth. The Teachers Colleges have been long recognized as an important part of our educational system. We favor continued support of these institutions with particular emphasis on relieving the state's shortage of trained elementary teachers.

The present administration strengthened and broadened our teachers' retirement system and to its continued development we pledge our support.

Civil Defense

The Legislature in 1949 enacted comprehensive legislation for civil defense. Under the Director, civil defense has been so organized that New Hampshire is now fully prepared to co-operate with the federal government in this important field. We favor bringing civil defense preparations to the highest point of efficiency.

Veterans

A grateful people demands that those who served in their defense must never be forgotten. We, therefore, urge continuing and sympathetic consideration of the rights and needs of the veterans and their dependents, and the prompt and efficient handling of claims and other problems of veterans.

Public Utilities

The efficient regulation of the rates and service of public utilities are of vital concern to our people. New Hampshire under the guidance of the Republican party created the Public Service Commission with comprehensive powers to establish just rates and regulate the service of public utilities. Over the years these powers have been broadened, and the administration strengthened by enlarging the staff of technical assistants. In the reorganization of the state government the office of Attorney General was enlarged by providing for assistants to assure adequate public representation in proceedings before the Commission. A recess commission was also created to study the statutes relating to public utilities and to propose necessary amendments thereto. We favor a policy of firm and just regulation of public utilities and such changes in laws and administration as may be found necessary to assure at all times fair and just rates and reasonable service.

Public Welfare

The enactment by the Legislature in 1949 of a statute providing for the care, treatment and rehabilitation of sexual psychopaths places New Hampshire among the leaders in the development of corrective legislation in this field. Benefits for the aged, the blind, and dependent children have been increased to meet the higher costs of living. In the course of reorganization of our state government particular attention was given to our state institutions in this field for the purpose of improving management and effecting economies in operation.

Industry and Employment

The welfare of our community depends upon successful business enterprise. Our Republican administrations have consistently worked to increase and improve productive jobs and job opportunities. The present administration has caused to be made an exhaustive study of our industrial resources for the purpose of developing existing industries and obtaining new enterprises. The efforts of our several agencies in this field have met with a good measure of success. We pledge the continuance of promotional activities and the intensification of our efforts to obtain new industries.

Highways

A betterment program extending over two years has been inaugurated by the highway department for the improvement of our primary, state aid and secondary system of highways. We favor the adoption as an official state policy of an expanded, realistic and far-reaching program for the reconstruction of all substandard highways within our state with consideration given to aid by the state to compact areas and increased assistance to the town road system.

Natural Resources and Recreational Facilities

The conservation and utilization of our natural resources is of primary importance. In this field the enactment by the Legislature of 1949 of a forest conservation law is a notable achievement which has been received with wide acclaim by conservation authorities. We favor the continued study and improvement of this law, the continued development of our system for forest fire protection and increased efforts to bring under control insects and diseases threatening our forests.

The recreational industry is an important source of income to our state. We favor the intensified promotion of this industry through existing state agencies and the continued development of public facilities for the greater enjoyment of our natural resources. Fishing and hunting provide not only recreation but also an important source of income. We favor a co-ordinated program of fish stocking and wild life conservation so that our opportunities for fishing and hunting shall be outstanding among the New England states.

We pledge the continued development of the program for the improvement of our water resources by the elimination of pollution through the Water Pollution Commission. We favor the employment of interstate compacts for regional development of our natural resources. In all interstate agreements for the utilization of water resources, consideration must be given to the preservation of our agricultural lands as well as to the needs for flood control and the development of hydro-electric power.

Conclusion

Finally, we express our firm belief in the integrity of the pledges and declarations of policy enunciated in this Platform. In view of the efficient administration of the state's affairs under the present Republican administration and of the critical national situation, we invite the men and women of New Hampshire, irrespective of their political affiliations, in this crucial year in the nation's history to support the principles and the candidates of the Republican Party.

DEMOCRATIC ORGANIZATION

Preamble

We, the delegates of the Democratic State Convention, assembled in Manchester on September 30, 1950 adopt the following platform and pledge our Party to its fulfillment:

It's Time for a Change

State Finance

The Democratic Party believes there has been a gross misuse of state funds. Normal state business can be financed without additional taxation. The tax structure of New Hampshire is obsolete and discriminatory. We oppose an increase of taxes but favor more equitable distribution of the tax burden. We oppose a sales tax. What is needed in Concord is not new money but a new administration. Full advantage must be taken of all available federal funds.

Labor

The Democratic Party has always been the champion of labor. We favor the following benefits for the working men and women of New Hampshire.

More adequate Unemployment Compensation extending benefits to forty weeks at $30.00 a week and dependency coverage $2.00 per head.

Forty hour week.

75c Minimum wage.

Commissioner of Labor should have a representative from organized labor on any board set up by him.

Raise Old Age Assistance payments. Set up committee to study Old Age Program.

Tenure of Office Act for teachers.

Business and Industry

The Democratic Party recognizes that industry is vital to our state economy. The Republicans talk about adding new industry but they will never succeed because the powers in control of the Republican Party fear the competition of new industry. The Democrats are not tied to intrenched privilege and will attract the diversity of new industry the state needs. A new steel industry should be only the beginning. We promise to create a department of commerce to foster industrial development. This state must take full advantage of its geographic location adjoining the great province of Quebec.

Utilities

The Democratic Party deplores the skyrocketing telephone and electricity rates. Despite the startling revelations of the recent utility hearings, no effective action has been taken by the administration to bring these rates down. The Democrats will take immediate direct action to bring our rates into line with neighboring states. We urge the development of all our water resources to end high-price, scarcity power. We favor river valley developments. The interstate compact method is impractical.

Agriculture

The Democratic Party supports the following program for agriculture.

1. Support the promotion of state agricultural resources and a program for agricultural education, including experimental research.

2. A new and improved program for increasing the efficiency of animal husbandry and eliminating disease.

State Employees

The Democratic Party sincerely recognizes the State's responsibility to the 3500 state employees. We condemn the inequitable handling of reclassification in its failure to provide adequate salaries in the lower brackets. We endorse the establishment of a group life insurance plan needed to supplement the retirement program.

Social Service

The Democratic Party promises to correct the notorious maladministration of state institutions and the public assistance program. Money intended for the needy has been wasted. We pledge ourselves to a reform of the program and payment of increased benefits to meet higher costs of food and shelter. We favor fluorine treated public water supplies and other practices endorsed by the New Hampshire Dental Society.

Education

The Democratic Party supports the Teachers' Association's requests for improved security provisions affecting employment practices in our schools. We endorse equitable distribution of funds available for state aid to education so that children in one part of the state will receive as good an education as they do in another. We favor an appropriation of $1,000,000 for this purpose.

Recreation and Highways

The Democratic Party promises to obtain for the recreation business of the state the millions of dollars now going to Vermont and Maine because of our inferior and mislocated highways. Building of new highways must be based on need rather than political expediency. We need an integrated road system designed to provide good travel within the state instead of merely swift passage through the state. We are opposed to toll roads.

Veterans

The Democratic Party greatly appreciates the splendid performance of our men and women in the armed services in the Korean conflict and we strongly urge that they be granted the benefits extended to veterans of previous wars.

National and Foreign Affairs

The Democratic Party of the State of New Hampshire endorses the program of the National Democratic Administration which has resulted in an unparalleled period of high production, prosperity and security. We pledge our support to the President in his determination to resist Communist aggression by making the United Nations strong enough to enforce world order.
